BUSY WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Insurgents and Regulars
Getting Together.

Capital City Scene of Conventions and Launching of Enterprises.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The events of the week in Congress have been full of interest and there are indications pointing to what the national legislature may be able to accomplish during the present short session. Among the most interesting is an apparent agreement between the insurgents and the regulars in the Senate on the tariff question, relating particular to the consideration of special subjects, as for example, the woolen schedule, the cotton schedule, lumber, coal etc., separately and without consideration of the tariff question as a whole. There is also apparently a much closer agreement in Congress with reference to the support of a bona fide tariff commission for a thorough and honest investigation and report upon this question.

The capital of the United States is, as is usual during the Congressional session, the arena of conventions, or the stage from which great enterprises are launched. What could be grander than the proposed national park to extend from Baltimore to Washington and to include two hundred thousand acres of forest, hill and dale? It is estimated that the cost will be six millions of dollars. The two cities are practically forty miles apart but they are connected by 400 steam roads, two electric roads and by a boulevard almost completed, over which automobiles pass in less than an hour.

There is much lobbying in Congress by two provincial cities, New Orleans and San Francisco, to have Congress appropriate for an International Exposition in celebration of the completion of the Panama canal. Both of these cities are, as it were, on the "jumping off" places of the country one of the Gulf's edge and the other on the Pacific, both of them remote from centers of population and while they claim that they do not want financial assistance, but only national recognition, everyone knows what that means in the beginning. The proper situation for a National Exposition in celebration of so great an event should be at the capital of the country. There is now no city in this hemisphere better adapted to an International Exposition than Washington, D. C. The Potomac Park is practically within the center of the city, easily accessible to every part of it, and Washington is within five hours of New York, three hours of Philadelphia, forty-five minutes from Baltimore, and within twenty-four hours of Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Louisville, Atlanta and all intermediate places.

Andrew Carnegie, whose benefactions amount now to 180 millions of dollars, has just added a donation of ten millions of dollars for the promotion of peace throughout the world. The nation will continue to build battleships and armies, but it is impossible that a donation so munificent shall not have the influence of its inspiration. The Secretary of War has just returned from a trip around the world and has started Congress by a confidential document sent to the House of Representatives stating that this country is unfit for war lacking the right kind of men, guns, ammunition and fortification. This confidential report is

HE took her one day in his automobile.
And he was a magnate in iron and steel.
Her very best gown was a cheap little lawn.
But her face was as lovely and fresh as the dawn.
He had horses and cattle and acres of land
And servants to wait on his slightest command.
A house in the country, a palace in town
(But the eyes of his chauffeur were gentle and brown).

THIS captain of finance, he wooed like a king.
So she did not say "No" when he brought her a ring.
He showered her with presents of diamonds and pearls.
And crotched her with roses, this fairest of girls.
But the glittering jewels were soon pushed aside.
And his roses, neglected, soon withered and died.
For the magnate was grizzled and wrinkled and old.
And the locks of the chauffeur were yellow as gold.

GOVERNMENT CLERKS HIT BY TAFT ORDERS

Department Employees Must Work
Half Hour Longer Each Day in Interest of Economy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—President Taft to-day authorized the members of his Cabinet to increase the working hours of the various department clerks in Washington by requiring them to report half an hour earlier in the morning or to remain half an hour later in the afternoon.

As to putting the new order of things into effect however, Mr. Taft left the matter entirely to the discretion of the various department heads. Just what the outcome will be is problematical at this time. Some of the Cabinet officers are said to favor the long working day, while others are not so sure that it would prove advantageous.

Because of the character of the fight that recently has been waged against adding half an hour to the seven hour day of the clerks, the President was disposed to put the new order in effect at once. One of the arguments against requiring the clerks to work until 5 p. m., instead of 4:30 was that it would cut them out of going to the baseball games in the summer. The merchants of the city made concerted protest, saying the later hours would require them to keep their shops open until late in the evening.

The Cabinet spent some time on the subject to-day. In some bureaus of the government it was said the longer hours already are being observed. In some of the departments the problem was said to be not so much an increase in hours as the cutting off of unnecessary employees. The whole inquiry is in line with the administration's policy of trying to bring greater efficiency and economy into the government service.

MISS SARA KEOWN DIED THURSDAY

Had Been Seriously Ill for Only a Short Time—Entire Community Shocked.

The Angel of Death visited Hartford Thursday morning about 11 o'clock and claimed one of our most estimable young ladies, Miss Sara Keown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cal. P. Keown. The entire city was shocked when the sad news was heard, and the sad intelligence passed from lip to lip, everyone expressing their sorrow, and the report cast a gloom over the entire community.

Miss Keown took seriously ill exactly two weeks from the time of her death, but for several days her recovery was thought only a matter of time. She had not enjoyed good health this fall, which was thought due to over work with her school duties, and during her recent severe illness had rallied several times. Thursday morning it was seen by the family that the end was near and her two brothers out West were summoned, and her sister, who is teaching at Beaver Dam came home at once.

In the untimely death of this young lady Hartford has lost one of its most beloved girls, and one that will be missed everywhere, in the home, in the school room, in the Sunday School and in every day life, and many a heart will feel the chill hand of grief with the realization and their friend of yesterday is no more. She took an intense interest in her school, and would have graduated this year, and her death will be also keenly felt by her associates in the school room.

Besides a large host of friends she leaves the following immediate relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Cal. P. Keown; three sisters, Mrs. Virgil Elgin, Jr., Misses Anna Eliza and Alice Keown; and three brothers, Clarence Keown, of Fordsville; Chester and Perry Keown, who are in Call-fornia and New Mexico, respectively. Late Thursday afternoon the funeral arrangements had not been completed, but our last information was that in all probability the funeral will be conducted at the Baptist Church this afternoon, the interment following at Oakwood cemetery.

Deeply as she will be grieved by those who were privy to call her friend, greatly as she will be missed by those whose lives mingled with her in the daily school work and walk of life, nothing can compare with the sorrow which the father, mother, sisters and brothers called upon to bear, and to whom the deep sympathies of a town full of people are extended in this hour of sadness.

Finally Married at Owensboro.

The Owensboro Messenger says:
As a termination of an engagement, Miss Charles Elmore and Mr. Vaughan Westerfield were married at the courthouse Tuesday morning by Justice of the Peace Pat Lancaster. The young couple eloped from their homes, in the Whitesville vicinity, November 19, coming to Owensboro and taking the midnight train for St. Louis, where they failed to secure license because of the tender age of the young woman. They then proceeded to Kansas City, where they were again refused license. This also occurred in Jefferson City, Missouri and when they attempted to secure license at Springfield the officers arrested them and warned their parents in the Whitesville neighborhood.

Pursuant to a telegram sent by young Westerfield's father, the young couple arrived in Owensboro yesterday morning at 3:50 o'clock, and after being married went to the young man's home at Whitesville.

Open Session is Called Off.

The open session that was to have been given at Hartford College this evening by the Adelphian and Hymatic literary societies has been called off on account of the death Thursday of Miss Sara Keown, who was a student of Hartford College, and a member of the Senior class this year.

RECEIVER FOR BIG COMPANY

For American Milling Company.

Manufactures Cellulose for Battleships, and a Stock Feed Sold
All Over the Country.

Concerning the application for a receiver for the American Milling Co. of Owensboro, the Owensboro Inquirer says:

The announcement is made that the American Milling Company which is operating its plant on the river, at the foot of Clay street, and best known as the Marsden company, is to be put in the hands of a receiver this step being agreed upon by a majority of the stockholders. A telegram to that effect was received in Owensboro on Tuesday night. The hearing on the receivership is to be held at Camden, N. J., on Tuesday, December 27, according to a statement made by A. F. Saig, secretary and treasurer of the concern, who is located in Chicago, and notices of which was received by the local management to-day.

Until about one year ago Mr. J. W. Tompkins was the superintendent of the company in Owensboro. Since his resignation, no one was employed to succeed Mr. Tompkins. Dan H. Smith has been acting manager, and Robert Castlen as cashier, and these are the only office is connection with the company in Owensboro.

The American Milling company was organized some years ago with a capital stock of $3,500,000 by a consolidation with the Marsden company which manufactured cellulose to be used in its battleships. Mr. A. G. Whiteman was formerly connected with the company but it is understood that he severed his connection with same in October last.

Notwithstanding the report of the attempted receivership, Mr. Castlen says that the plant is running every day, and will continue to do so until he is officially notified that other steps are to be taken. There are now about 35 men at work, and the company is shipping about six cars daily. The company handles more ears than any other plant in Owensboro and at this its freight bills are said to be enormous, most of which is made up of demurrage on cars.

The company has a contract for the manufacture of a large amount of cellulose to come year.

The food which is manufactured is shipped throughout the entire country, and many ears are sent to the stock farms of New York on which many of the eastern cities depend for their supply of fresh butter and milk.

TALKS TO SENATE AS NEWSPAPER MAN

Young, of Iowa, Surprises His Colleagues.

Says Congress Should Adjourn For Two Years--Says People Need a Rest.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Senator Lafayette Young, of Iowa, to-day gave the legislative body of which he has been member exactly ten days the surprise of his existence. He had prepared to make an attack on his colleague, Senator Cummins, who seeks passage of a concurrent resolution changing the rules of the Senate and House so as to permit plenary revision of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. This he did and more.

Dotting his toga when he arose, he bowed to the grave and dignified Senators from a standpoint of an editor, which he is in private life.

The Senator gasped and then laughed when Mr. Young told that his country would feel relieved were Congress to adjourn altogether for two "scold" years. It gasped again when he alluded to its members in breezy fashion as "boys" and when he declared that the editors of the country and not Congress ruled the country the galleries joined with Senators in general hilarity.

Senator Young's speech, which occupied less than an hour, commanded the entire attention. The Senator had prepared an address which was before him on his desk, but he seldom consulted the printed transcript. He warmed as he proceeded, and apparently realizing that it must be at once his alibiatory and his swan song he spoke his real thoughts on legislation on the tariff and legislation.

This reference to editors and printer's ink as the real directors of the destiny of the nation was followed by disavowal of any intent to offend.

When he called his colleagues "boys" he accompanied it with a wave of his hand. This incident followed a story of how, just as he was about to take the train for Washington at the Senate, a constituent, "buttonholed" him.

"Go down there, Senator," said the constituent, "and for heaven's sake put up a fight for the consumer."

"I will not," Mr. Young said he replied. "These boys are doing what I am going to fight for the producer."

Standing in Senator Tillman's place, Mr. Young attracted general attention when he arose, not only because of the novelty involved in a set speech from a new Senator, but because of the quaintness and forcefulness of his language as he warned to his work.

"It would be a good thing if Congress should adjourn for two years," he said. "Legislation is a磨ace at times. Let us have a cessation of hostilities. This is the only way to insure a new era of prosperity."

Mr. Young contended that the use of the word "progressive" was inadmissible. "It's an apology for being caught with the game," he said. Addressing the insurgents directly, he added.

"You've got to come back to your father's house. I'm the keeper of the covenant and I tell you that when Democrats are elected to the seats of William McKinley and James A. Garfield the circumstances should give you pause. Now if any progressive here wishes to recruit I'll see him after the meeting is over."

Mr. Young opposed all efforts at revision of the existing tariff law because as he contended the law protects the interests of the farmer. He had great fear, he said that ultimately the adoption of the resolution would prove injurious to the great agricultural interests.

"The principal complaint against the tariff as regards prices," he said, "has had reference to the products of the farm. Therefore we might anticipate that the first schedule that would come from the other house would be the agricultural schedule. I would be afraid for Secretary Wilson or any number of great farmers to be caught alone with the schedule with no means of defense."

"The weapons of offense and defense in legislation are the right of amendment and the privilege of offering substitutes. My colleague would take from himself and myself the right of introducing the woollen schedules as a substitute for proposed amendment which might put agricultural products on the free list. So should the proposed rule become the law of the two houses we would be denied the privilege of fighting for our interests by the arraignment and introduction of the interests of others.

Mr. Young spoke of the recent elections and plainly referring to the "progressive" Republicans said that arguments made by men within the Republican party had produced Democratic victory. In discussing the attacks by "insurgents" upon the principle of protection, Mr. Young told of meeting William Jennings Bryan recently and saying to him that just as the latter had progressed in fitness for the presidency, his chances had diminished and that as he had now become a conservative, his party would not prefer him for that high office.

"My colleague on Tuesday said there were gross inequalities in the tariff in 1903," said Mr. Young at the outset. "This statement is undoubtedly true and would be true if my colleague and those in sympathy with him were to put in the next five years in rewriting the schedules. Schedules are prolific in opportunity for attack. It has always been true and will continue to be true so long as there is a duty on imports."

The Senator challenged any member to state his belief that the farmer was receiving too much for his products. He declared it had been indicated that the middleman was getting too great a share of the value of farm products.

"If this be true," he demanded, "why strike at the producer? Why not go after the middleman direct? The tariff of 1909 in attempting to strike at monopoly, put petroleum on the free list. The refiners immediately reduced the purchasing price of crude oil and continued the high price to the consumer on refined oil. Thus the consumer was not benefited. Why repeat this performance in the case of the farmer and his products?"

With the declaration that tariff legislation never could be made perfect nor entirely satisfactory, Mr. Young urged that the duty of public men and the public press was to accept the Payne-Aldrich law and let the country get down to the transaction of business. He pointed out that changes in this bill will not sustain the tide of criticism setting in from those interests whose welfare is touched.

"The tariff ought to be revised," he continued, "as the President has suggested in a scientific way, one schedule at a time. I might not be willing to object to the rule proposed by my colleague which would prohibit the offering of amendments to a schedule which might be pending, were I not afraid that the first schedule to be pending would be the schedule covering farm products."

Such being the case, Mr. Young continued the great farming States would be attacked by the South, the Rocky Mountain States and New England. Under the combined attack of the great manufacturing and mining regions the agricultural State would be practically helpless. Because of this condition, he said he hoped the Cummings rule would not be adopted and at this juncture indulged in a fling at his colleague.

"I am surprised also," he declared "that my colleague who has been fighting bravely and gallantly to unshackle the members of the House from the tyranny of the rules should undertake to bring the same shackles into the Senate. Yet my distinguished colleague seeks to make it impossible for me to defend the only products of our home people."

Demanding to know who was dissatisfied with the tariff the Senator declared the time had come to end the tariff discussion. He agreed with President Taft, he said, that the country needed a rest.

"Would it be presumptuous for me to suggest to such Republicans as have been attacking the tariff," he inquired with ironical emphasis, "that they know that to the Democrats who are preparing to take control of that particular branch of the Government where revenue bills shall originate? Let me suggest further to such Republicans as are in favor of low tariff that they press the matter with all their might and accomplish all they can previous to March 4, and then would it be too much to ask them to subside with their agitation and give the country a rest?"

ENAMEL WARE CAUSES CANCER, SAYS DOCTOR

Tells Homoeopaths Particles From Dishes Start Growths in Stomach.

Special Dispatch to The North American.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 11.

INTRODUCTION of modern enamel ware in the kitchens of the country is responsible for many cases of cancer, with the advanced theory advanced by Dr. William H. Dieffenbach, of New York, in a paper entitled, "Observations on Cancer, read before the American Society of Military Sciences and Public Health, at which leading experts of the International Homoeopathic Congress met today to discuss questions of medical interest." The argument advanced was that children are more liable to cancer than adults, and that the cause of this is the use of the hard-coated dishes used in preparation of meals allowed minute but germs of foreign matter to become oxidized with the food. These are taken into the stomach, where the cancerous growth is caused by the acids which they make in the walls of the organs.

PIONEER CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL IN KENTUCKY

By RAYMER WENDELL TINSLEY.

Over a century and a quarter ago was held probably the first Christmas celebration in Kentucky. At that time the greater part of the country lying along and just to the south of the Ohio River was in its primitive state, with the bear, the buffalo, the wild turkey and deer inhabiting its trackless woods and the Red Man looking within the shadows of its dense forests. Few people had braved the terrors of the great unknown country which lay beyond the Alleghanies, and they had not scattered over the vast territory but had built forts and remained together for mutual protection.

At one of these forts were twenty families, who had come down the Ohio with Clark's expedition and landed near the present site of Louisville or Corn Island. Here they built a temporary fort where they could live in safety while another was being erected on the mainland at a point they called the Falls of the Ohio.

Toward the latter part of the year 1778, the new fort, though not completely finished, was ready to accommodate their ordinary needs, so they left the island for the stronger and better fitted abode.

In accordance with the customs they had brought from across the mountains, they decided to have a "House Warming," the time of which was set for Christmas Day. Accordingly the expert hunters were sent out to kill the game and on Christmas Eve there was much merrymaking in the new home while the men were preparing the game and the women picking the fowls.

The fort was built in the old fashioned way with the log cabins standing in the form of a rectangle surrounding an open court in the center. Here all the settlers could assemble for social entertainment with little fear of a sudden attack of savagery, both Indians and wild animals.

At about twelve o'clock on Christmas day the great feast was spread in a large storehouse built for common use. The table consisted of forked stakes driven into the dirt floor and boards resting on long poles run through the forks. There was no cloth over the rough board table and most of the dishes were wooden bowls and trays with now and then a pewter spoon, a horn handled knife or two and a few tin cups. But the feast was not to be suppressed. There was a great variety of delicacies, such as venison, bear, rabbit, turkey and buffalo, and corn bread in pone, hoe cake and batter form; hominy boiled and fried; milk and butter, with homemade cheese. However the great dish of the day was a possum, hung by the tail on a stick in the middle of the table, where everyone could be served with a piece of it.

Can you imagine the grandeur of that first great pioneer Christmas festival in Kentucky? The merriment and joy and good cheer of all?

But it was not the custom for the fun to end with the feast. They had expected to bring the day of joyous celebration to a close with a grand dance, but their only means of furnishing music was an old negro fiddler named Cato, and three of the strings on his fiddle were broken. He had tried to fix them with bark and strings of buffalo hide, but all to no avail. It seemed the dance was to be given up.

At the last moment however, it was reported that a boat had come down the river and on it was a French fiddler. He was immediately sent for and he agreed to furnish the music.

In the meantime Cato went to the boat and bargained for three new strings for his fiddle, given for them as many picks, when he had put them on his fiddle and gotten back to the port, the Frenchman was already there.

The table and stools were cleared away from the center of the storehouse and everything made ready for the dance. The children and those not wishing to dance seated themselves around the walls of the room to look on. The Frenchman arranged the dances for one of his favorite dances and explained it to them. When the music began they did their best, but the air and the dance were unfamiliar and they did not succeed very well. Another was tried and another, but all were gone through in a listless and perfunctory manner. The fiddler despaired. The dancers began to drop out and finally all ceased.

When the people were beginning to collect in little groups and the Frenchman had become resigned and put aside his fiddle, old Cato forgotten and for the time neglected, slipped noiselessly into the room with his beloved instrument and began the familiar strains of an old Virginia reel. The music passed like a charm through the room. Immediately the men lined up on one side and the women on the other and then began such a whirl of dances bowing and turning and gliding up and down between the lines each couple tried to surpass the other and none ceased until they were nearly exhausted, when breathless and flushed, they took their places at the foot of the line to await the time when they should again be the lead. Thus the dance proceeded well up into the night, the dancers entirely oblivious of the dangers of the country beyond the walls of the fort.

This first Christmas festival was unlike those of to-day, but it furnished employment and entertainment for the brave men and women who invaded wilds of this country and it gave expression of the simple, sturdy and loyal natures of that people who helped make Kentucky what it is.

Who are Our Inferiors.

A missionary from Baltimore has been lecturing Bostonians on manners and telling them how to be gentlemen. In the course of his graceful remarks he said many nice and undisputed things. When, however, he appealed to his hearers to be kind to their inferiors he commanded on debatable if not dangerous ground.

Undoubtedly we should all be kind to our inferiors but it is equally necessary that they should be kind to us. It must be mutual. This first and chief kindness they can show us is humbly to acknowledge their inferiority and cheerfully concede our superiority. Until that is done there can be no amity between us. Nothing is more disengaging when we look down kindly upon a person beneath us than to have him resent our smiling condescension.

This missionary therefore instead of addressing "a distinguished audience" in a fashionable neighborhood would have done better had he begun his labors with an undistinguished audience hopelessly outside the pale of fashion. At least since he began as he did, he should have informed us precisely how we are to know an inferior when we see him and, indeed how we are to determine that we are entitled to regard ourselves as superior.

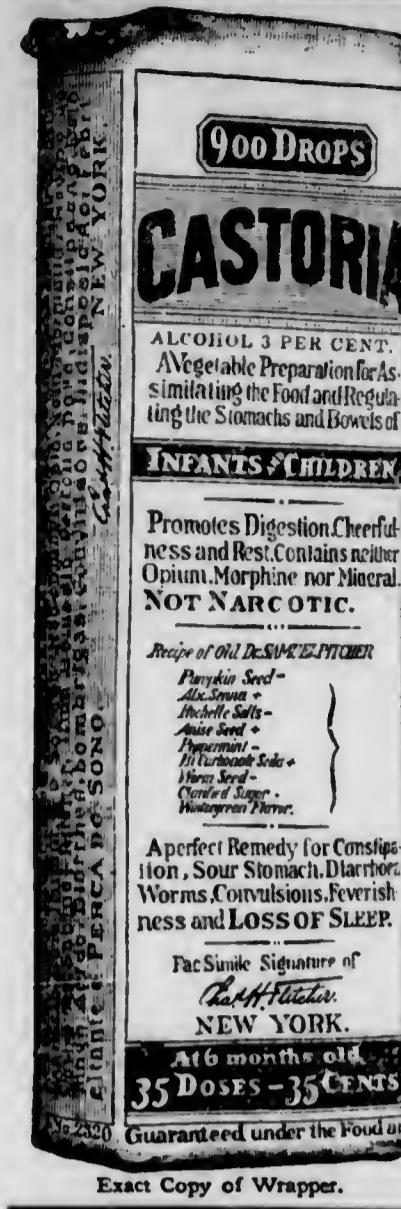

Circumstances alter cases. Is a good cook the inferior of a social leader in the kitchen? Is a learned professor the superior of a skillful bantam when they are crossing a turbulent stream together? Is even the proud Caucasian heir of all the ages a better man than the woolly African is a 24-foot ruff?

Possibly the Baltimorean apostle of gentility is speaking the language of the eighteenth rather than that of the twentieth century. In this more democratic age the term gentleman is coming to denote a state of mind not a member of a class. According to this modern standard the true gentleman is one who neither looks down nor looks up to his fellow-men. Only a cad dares to claim superiority and only a toady is content to be rated inferior. To be kind you must first be modest.—Boston Masses.

$8.50 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES to introduce, only $4.00. The regular retail price of these tires is $15.00 per pair, to introduce, $8.50. Send sample pair for $1.00. Satisfaction guaranteed.

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks, Glue will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred different sizes.

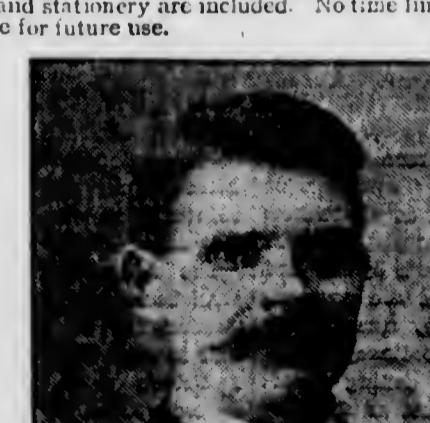

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and bounces. It has a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice since they were put on. They are ordinary tire, the puncture testing qualities being equal to several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.00 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.00 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay until you have examined and found them strictly as represented. We will allow a reasonable amount of wear and tear. You may return them at any time within 30 days of receiving them and get a full refund. Send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. You run no risk in sending us an order for examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of tires, when you have them they will ride easier, run faster, break less, last longer and longer than any tire you have ever seen. Write us at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any until you have examined and found them strictly as represented. Write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle from anyone until you know the new red wonderful ones we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23.

We are more than convinced that what governor Wilson and Secretary of State Bruner have been saying about each other is absolutely true.

Tariff reform is a good thing until it begins to effect the prices of things we have to sell. Then it is different. This is a selfish world after all.

We have had many compliments passed upon our last week's edition of Christmas number, and here take occasion to return our thanks for the many kind things which have been said about us by our friends.

The average tariff smash will tell you that protection is responsible for all of the trusts. What about the ice trust, theater, trust, express company trust, telephone and telegraph trust and the Associated Press trust?

The "damnable tax system" referred to by Secretary of State Bruner, in Louisville, last week was enacted by a Democratic legislature. In fact no Republican legislation was ever enacted in Kentucky, as that party has never had control of the state legislature.

Dr. Greculus of Pendleton County has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State and in doing so states that he is the only announced candidate. What about our own G. B. Likens who has been laboring under the impression that he was somewhat announced? Get busy and show us what you are in it Gabe.

The speech of Charles Hobie Clark at the banquet of the American Association of wool and worsted manufacturers at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York Dec. 8th, was one of the most powerful answers to the free trade tariff tinkerling crowd which it has been our good fortune to read. Mr. Clark followed chairman Emery of the tariff board and completely demolished his theory concerning the settlement of the tariff question by commission.

Senator Lafe Young, the newest member of the United States Senate and who succeeds Senator Dolliver made a speech one day last week which has attracted attention all over the country. It was in reply to a speech by his own colleague Senator Cummins on the tariff question. Senator Young's statement that the country would be better off if Congress would adjourn for two years, was a corker. He might have made it FOUR, and the country would still profit by it.

The National Civil Service Reform Association which has just concluded its annual meeting in Baltimore, took the position that all officers of the United States should be under Civil service except the President, Vice President and members of the cabinet. We see no reason to exclude those offices from the list. We have had several presidents who if subjected to a suitable Civil service examination would doubtless have failed, and there is no doubt but what many members of the various cabinets could never have gotten in under a well regulated civil service system. By the way why not have the civil service commissioners also pass the required examination?

Owing to the entire corn crop failure in the Rough river bottom land for two years, thousands of bushels of corn have been shipped here in the past few weeks, both by rail and river, and the farmers are compelled to send their money away to pay for an article under ordinary conditions they would be selling themselves. This is no fault of the farmer or the land, but is due entirely to the unprecedented rains and floods which have devastated farm lands throughout a wide range of the Green river and Rough river valleys. No better corn land exists anywhere and our people are looking forward hopefully to a bountiful crop the coming season which will place them upon their feet again and bring back the prosperous days which they enjoyed before the floods.

TAKING IT OUT OF POLITICS.
Every time anything goes wrong in official circles the cry is raised take it out of politics. This has encouraged od civil-service extensions until now almost every appointive position has been recovered from politics, so called. These people forget that politics pure and simple is the means by which any Republican form of government is run. Anything else in Monarchy. The more we become dominated by Civil service or life tenure in office the nearer akin we become to Monarchy. The more offices elected by the people the more nearly we remain allied to the scheme of Republican form of government. The kind which our forefather intended should govern this country. It makes us sick at heart every time we hear someone jump up with the cry "take it out of politics." Our country is run by politics and the thing to do is to see to it that we have pure and honest politics, the kind that will elect and appoint honest and capable men to office. The trouble is not with the system but with the people themselves in their laxity in requiring that each nominee shall be of the very best material obtainable within the party.

For Good Roads.

The special committee of the South Good Roads Association met in Louisville last week to prepare a report which will be filed with the legislature.

The suggestions prepared by the committee provide for the imposition of a straight 5 cents upon the $100 tax in Kentucky for good roads, the creation of the positions of State highway commissioner to superintend the spending of this money; the assistance out of this fund of poor counties in the building of roads, with the provision that no county shall receive more from the state than it raises itself.

Night Rider Case Closed.

Eddyville, Ky., Dec. 21.—"Not guilty" was the verdict returned yesterday by the jury in the so-called "night rider" trial here, in which Roy Merrick, "Spunk" Crookmire, Fraud Murphy and Vilas Mitchell were charged with the murder of Axiom Cooper last summer.

The jury was given the case yesterday and reported this morning that they could not agree. They were returned to the jury room and shortly reappeared with a verdict acquitting the accused men.

Republican Convention.

At a meeting of the Republican Committee of the Seventh Senatorial District of Kentucky, held in Beaver Dam, on the 17th of Dec., 1910, at 1 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of determining the time, place and manner of nominating a candidate to be voted for State Senator, for said district at the regular November election, 1911, Mr. T. F. Green was elected Chairman and J. C. Fleener, Secretary.

On motion it was ordered and directed that a delegated convention of the representatives of the Republican party of the Seventh Senatorial district of Kentucky be held in the city of Beaver Dam, Ky., at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time, Monday the 30th day of Jan., 1911 for the purpose of nominating a Republican candidate for State senator for said district to be voted for at the regular November election 1911.

The delegates to said convention shall be selected by county mass conventions to be held at the county seat in each county of said district at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time on Saturday, Jan., 28th, 1911. Each county shall be entitled to one delegate for each one hundred or fraction over fifty votes cast for the nominee for governor in said county at the November election 1907. The form of voting at said county mass convention for delegates shall be by vive voce. The number of delegates under this apportionment allowed to each of the counties is as follows:

Bank of Hartford Examined.

State Bank Examiner, Lon Rogers, paid Hartford a visit last week and examined the Bank of Hartford. When Governor Wilson vetoed the bill making provision for examination of state banks, the Secretary of State made a proposition to these institutions inviting them to be examined, notwithstanding the failure of the act to become a law. The Bank of Hartford was among those which accepted the secretary of state's proposal. After spending about three days going over the books of the bank and making a careful examination of its abilities and assets, Mr. Rogers volunteered to say that he was pleased to find the bank in such a splendid condition.

School Notes.

I wish to call attention to the time of the Common School examination which will be held January 13th, 14th, 1911.

All pupils in the County who are expecting to attend either of the County High Schools should make arrangements to pass this examination. All pupils who complete the Common School Course and pass this examination will have free tuition in the County High Schools.

Teachers having pupils in their schools who are ready for High School work should urge such pupils to attend but do not send pupils who are not ready for that work.

I think all young men and young women who are expecting to teach in the near future, should attend some High School.

The public demands that you attend some good school and fully prepare yourselves for teaching.

All who attend the examination should be present by 9:30 a. m. Jan. 13, 1911. HENRY LEACH Sept.

GREATEST GATHERING OF BUSINESS MEN HELD

In this Country Will be Addressed by Taft at Atlanta.

Washington, Dec., 23.—President Taft will address the greatest gathering of business men ever held in this country on March 10th, at Atlanta, Georgia, where the Southern Commercial Congress will be in session for three days beginning March 8th 1911. The Governors of the other fifteen Southern States united with Governor Brown of Georgia in extending this invitation to President Taft, which was delivered to him today through the Executive Committee of the Southern Commercial Congress and a Committee from Georgia.

The program of the three days will be the most important in the history of the commercial South, and invitations will be issued to the most prominent men of the nation to participate. In addition to the address by the President, who has chosen for his subject, "A Greater Nation through a Greater South," addresses will be made by Ex-President Roosevelt, Gov-Elect Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Hon. T. V. Powderly Surgeon General Walter Wyman the Governors of the Southern States and other distinguished men throughout the entire country.

This vast rally is intended to testify in a vivid manner to the people of the nation that the South, regarding itself as an integral portion of our great community, has set itself to the task of building a still greater nation through the growth and development of a still greater South.

Final arrangements of the program are now being completed by the Executive Committee of the Southern Commercial Congress at Washington, who expect to announce the full list of speakers within a few days.

SLAVE MARRIAGES

ARE LEGITIMATE.

Senator Bradley Has Bill Passed Making Them Valid and Binding.

Shortly after the war the Kentucky Legislature allowed all slaves who had married in bondage to go before the county clerk and make a declaration, thereby legitimizing their marriage and issue. Owing to ignorance this was done in but a few instances the consequences being that the pension bureau turned down all widows' and orphans' pension claims. At the last session of the Kentucky Legislature Senator Bradley prepared a bill which was put through both houses by State Senator Curzon of Louisville, making the customary slave marriages legitimate. They were usually performed without a license. The pension bureau has ruled that it can now consider any claims which may be filed since the act of the legislature went into effect last July. All claims which were filed before that date must be resubmitted. There are several hundred cases in the state of negro soldiers whose descendants will become pensionable under the ruling of the pension bureau.

Dynamite Explosion.

(Special Correspondence.)

Mr. John G. Daffon of near Sunnydale while studying the general contents of a Dynamite cap on last Tuesday the 13th experienced quite a surprising accident about 11 o'clock when the explosion of the Dynamite cap occurred tearing the fore finger of his left hand off at the middle joint and the end of his thumb off turning up the nail and injuring the finger next to his forefinger, also injuring the same finger and thumb on his right hand, and doing semi-injury to his face in several places. Not only this but also his wife and two boys who were standing or sitting near him were also injured by same explosion. The file that he was using in taking this lesson was broken in to several pieces.

Dr. J. A. Duff of Dundas was called and dressed their wounds, and they are now doing as well as could be expected.

For Cooking and Serving.

Into one quart of water grate the yellow rinds of three lemons and two oranges. Add two pounds of sugar and stir until dissolved. Simmer gently fifteen minutes. Strain and return to the kettle, which should be a porcelain lined or white granite one, and add to it one glass each currant jelly, raspberry and quince. Heat strain again, then cool before adding a pint of grape juice and a can of grated pineapple.

Cover and set aside overnight. When ready to serve add a pint each preserved cherries and peaches cut in slices. Put a quart of this mixture in the punch bowl, add to water a pint of ginger ale or one cupful ginger tea that has been steeped, strained and chilled. Replenish the following bowl as needed observing the same proportions.

Put into an agate pan four cupfuls of granulated sugar, one cupful of thick cream and two cups of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, add one tablespoonful of butter and cool without stirring for twenty minutes or longer. It must crisp when dropped into cold water, flavor as desired pour into buttered plates and cool quickly. When cool enough to handle take it and pull until the mass feels smooth and velvety; the longer it is pulled the creamier it will be. Draw into long strips cut in small pieces and lay on waxed paper; when cold pack in tin boxes that are air tight and it will be more creamy.

Another rule for cream candy calls for two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one teaspoonful of flour, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of cold water and flavoring. Mix the sugar and flour together; add vinegar to the water and stir into the sugar and flour; boil until it snaps, but do not stir after putting it on to boil. Pour on to a buttered platter flavor and as soon as it is cold enough pull as long as you can.

Cook together one cupful of granulated or coffee sugar, two cupfuls New Orleans molasses, one tablespoonful of vinegar and a piece of butter the size of a small hickory nut. Do not let it boil hard and do not stir else it will grain. As soon as brittle when dropped into cold water, turn into buttered pans and set away until cool enough to handle. The pulling requires two people one to hold the hands in position of a hook for the puller to throw the stretched candy upon while the other holds the length together. The more pullately it is handled the lighter, incolor and texture will the candy be. When it is of a high cream color stretch it to a long wide thin strip and lay on marble or molding board. With the left hand lift the end of the candy from the board and with the back of a knife, held in the right hand, breaking the length presses the ends together, making the candy less porous.

Measure one-half level teaspoon of dry mustard the same of sugar, a salt-spoon of salt and a few grains of cinnamon.

Add the unbeaten yolks of two eggs, one-half cup of olive oil, one and one-half tablespoons of vinegar tarragon preferred, a rounding teaspoon each of chopped pickles, capers and olives and a level teaspoon of min-cocca.

After meat is ready to pot have boiling one quart of the meat liquor;

add a pint of chopped meat and thicken with corn meal, until the consistency of common mush. Mold and slice and fry quickly to light brown in butter.—Inter Ocean.

Aged Woman Walks up Fourteen Flights to Find She Had Wrong Address.

At that hour in the morning when the influx of stenographers and their employers in the office buildings has ceased and elevator operators begin to recover from their dizzy plunges and speculate on the profits of the chicken farm, an elderly woman appeared in the corridor of a downtown building and interrupted the writer in his meditations, the New York Herald says.

"Will you kindly direct me to the stairs that leads to the fourteenth story?" said the woman.

"They're over there, madam, but you'd better take the elevator. It's a long climb. They're not just."

Without waiting for further advice on the terrors of stair climbing the woman rushed off and began her ascent.

Half an hour later Theodore Kolber a clerk in the Public Services Commission offices on the fourteenth floor, was aroused from his musings by a knocking at the door next to his desk, that is an exit to be used in case of fire. Mr. Kolber inquired what was wanted. Receiving no answer and the knocking continued he opened the door.

"Well, young man," said the woman, "you certainly live a long way up. I've come to tell you that the telephone company has strung wires right in front of my windows. Unless something is done immediately I'll cut the old things down myself."

The caller was informed that telephones and telegraphs come within the jurisdiction of the second district of the commission, which has recently opened offices in the Metropolitan Tower. Mr. Kolber desirous of being specific in his directions, thoughtlessly added that the offices were on the twenty-first floor.

"Good gracious young man! I've just walked up fourteen flights of stairs to register this complaint. Now I must climb twenty-one flights. This is dreadful."

"Why not take the elevator, madam?" advised the surprised clerk.

"No sir. They're not safe, I never ride in them. I'll go slow and take the stairs."

The woman left, returning down the stairs. Up to closing time she had not reached the offices in the tower.

The Boy Problem.

In discussing The Boy Problem before the Joint State Convention of the Baptist Sunday school and the Baptist Young People's Union at Muncie, Rev. J. V. Fradenburg declared that there was no boy problem when one properly understood boys. Doubtless there is not. That is to say there is no more a boy problem than there is a man problem. A boy will do certain things, and a man will do certain other things by reason of their very nature. In both cases some of these are objectionable but they are none the less natural for all that.

For one thing, a boy is if he is a really boyish healthy boy both fitful and noisy and for no other reason than the perfectly good and convincing one that he is a boy. He is full of unnecessary noise and unnecessary motions, and they have to come out.

If you are observant you have doubtless noticed that the human being makes unnecessary movements in indirect proportion to the number of his years. When the baby is awake in his cradle the uncertain purposeless motions of his arms and legs are almost continuous. As he gets so he can toddle about his motions become probably somewhat fewer in actual number but more purposeful. And as he grows into a body they are more vigorous and even more purposeful. Even when he skips along on his way and runs for brief stretches when he might just as well walk at an even gait there is purpose in such movements if it is nothing more than to relieve his superabundant energy.

Later on, with the purpose of becoming more definite he grows into the motions that make up gamma becoming increasingly skillful with each advance, and decreasing the number of his movements that are apparently purposeless. As he passes into manhood he still walks briskly, but he walks to get some place—more and more definite is his purpose. Gradually he comes to the time where he no longer runs upstairs two steps at a time for the purpose of getting to the top quicker. As he grows older he finds that he has more time. Gradually again as he accumulates age and weight he merely plods upstairs. He walks with a slower and more definite tread, and there has to be a good reason for the movements of any kind that he makes.

Now, if all the motions that the boy must make a varying proportion of them—according to the boy's temperament—must be such as are not approved by adult judgment. Some of them are destructive and many of them are disturbing. But here again a condition and not a theory confronts us. Directed the boy may be, but never curbed into immobility. And this is probably what Rev. Mr. Fradenburg meant when he said there was no boy problem. The boy is no problem; he is a natural force and one that must be harnessed only loosely so that he can work off his energy according to the plans made and provided by nature. Altho this is plain and simple enough to those who understand boys. Those who do not had better keep out of Boys' way—if they

GOVERNOR CLASHES WITH PRISON BOARD.

Warden Mudd Says he Will not Recognize Conditional Pardons Unless Directed to do So.

Frankfort Ky., Dec. 17.—A new condition was written into a commutation of a prison sentence, to effect a pardon, by Gov. Wilson this morning and it may serve to bring to a head the clash of authority between the Governor and the Prison Commission. The condition that the Governor attaches to the commutation is construed by the Prison Commission to be an effort to force E. B. Mudd, warden of the penitentiary to recognize the conditional pardons which are being granted by the Governor. Col. Mudd says he will refuse to sign anything unless directed to do so by his board.

The pardon is to be effective only on the condition that the warden of the penitentiary sign a statement in writing that he will recognize the condition set forth in the pardon and that he will agree to receive the prisoner if the Governor should order him returned to the penitentiary for violating the terms of the conditional pardon.

Col. Mudd has refused to recognize conditional pardons as being different from any other kind of pardons and has stated that he would decline to receive a prisoner once pardoned by the Governor if the Governor should order the prisoner back to the penitentiary for violation of any of the terms of the pardon.

The granting of the pardon to-day was the outcome of the clash over the parole of Leander Risner, who was returned to the penitentiary on an order from the Prison Commission, for violation of his parole and then released by order of the Governor who said he wanted to make an investigation of the reasons for revoking the parole.

The man who received clemency conditional upon the warden agreeing to recognize conditional pardons, was Joseph Durkin, sent to the penitentiary from Fayette county for two years for forgery. He came here in April 1910. The Governor commutes his sentence to one year actual service.

Made by Edison.

"Invented by Thomas Edison." How many times you may have read that it is impossible to estimate. One man who wondered if there was any way out of calculating the inventor's activities has searched in the patent office for all the records and has made a table of them. Joseph J. O'Brien, a patent attorney, was the investigator. He found that Edison's first patent was secured June 1, 1869. In the forty years since then the total is above 300. The largest number for a single year is seventy-five in 1881.

The patented inventions were only a part of the "wizard's" activities. The total of his inventions is estimated as above 2,000. In classifications his patented inventions are:

1. Electrical communication	184
2. Electrical illumination	100
3. Electrical power machinery	113
4. Electrical batteries	81
5. Distribution of electricity	59

This Week's Short Sermon.

In a Kentucky town not long ago the village belle was being united in the holy bonds of matrimony with the young man of her choice and when the minister asked the bridegroom if he promised to do all the nice things required of a good husband the young man responded with a loud and emphatic, "I do!"

"Well, I'd rather see it than hear of it," ejaculated the bride's mother. So saying the old lady voted the "show-me" sentiment that is so rapidly developing among the American people.

The time was when the people would listen open-mouthed to any sort of spread-eagle oratory but nowadays there is a demand for proof. Cheating on the part of orators becomes harder as more people learn to read their Bibles, newspapers and magazines understandingly and to think for themselves. Ignorant and sincere speakers are being discredited all over the land although some are still making money by appeals to the emotions of weak men and women.

Production of Apples.

While there has been a decrease per capita in the production of apples in the entire country, the State of the Northwest are giving this nutritious fruit the attention it deserves. It is estimated that in a few years there will be 100,000 barrels of apples marketed from Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana alone, and there is a growing production of apples in the States in the Mississippi Valley and east thereof. So far the efforts of the fruit grower have been concentrated largely upon the production and upon the best methods of caring for the young and growing tree. The best apples command a higher price in many of the great cities of the country than do oranges.

Resolutions of Respect.

Atabasca Tribe No. 253 Improved Order Red Men.

Whereas on Dec., 13, 1910 the Great Spirit has seen proper to call Bro. G. D. Gilstrap across the dark river of death into the Hunting Grounds beyond, and whereas in his death a link in our chain has been broken thus admonishing us that we two must go as it soon or be it late. Therefore be it Resolved that we hereby extend our sympathy to the Savier who wept while on earth and will fold the arms of his protecting love around those who put their trust in him.

Be it further resolved that as a mark of our esteem and fraternal remembrance of his many virtues that these resolutions be signed upon the records of this tribe and be published in each of the county papers and a copy be given to his father and mother.

Wants Old Santa to Come.

Hartford, Ky., Dec. 19th, 1910.

Dear Santa:—Christmas is drawing near. I would like to see you and have a talk with you. There are many things that I would like to have this Christmas, but I would be willing to take most anything I can get. From Miss Vera Midkiff.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The question of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak"; the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unselfing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS BY JUNIOR.

PROF. C. C. HAYDEN, Supt. of the City Schools of Greenville, Ky., has established a correspondence school at Greenville. ALL of the Christmas goods have arrived in this city, and the stores are decorated nicely, and the show windows have just lots of nice things, and the town certainly has put on a holiday appearance.

DON'T you wish you had done your Christmas shopping during the August sales?

FOR downright, human pleasure what holiday is more enjoyable than the Christmas season with its mistletoe, its holly and beautiful Christmas gifts.

EVEN in a "dry" town a man occasionally breaks loose and gets tight.

HOW did you like the Christmas present that City Marshal Riley gave you the other day, with the compliment of the City Board of Supervisors?

WHEN it comes to entertaining and making a person feel at home Centertown knows the way it is done. They always give a stranger the glad hand. The lodge of Oddfellows at that place also knows how to do things to a Queen's taste.

RECENTLY an advertisement was carried in The Republican for one of our home merchants. The ad. was not a large one, but just the same, a day or so after the paper was out a lady walked into this merchant's store and told him she had seen his ad. in The Republican about his Christmas stock, and without any trouble he sold her a bill of $16. Can there be any question about advertising in your home papers being a good investment?

DECEMBER 24, (Midnight) Annual visit of Santa Claus to Hartford.

WHY not surprise us and pay that subscription a year or so in advance to The Republican? That would be something nice to do for Christmas.
